

Fair, continued warm today and probably tomorrow. Yesterday's temperature—Maximum, 97; minimum, 73.

NO. 2488

WASHINGTON, D. C. WEDNESDAY, JULY 30, 1913.

ONE CENT.

HUERTA'S HOPES OF RECOGNITION GROWING SLIM

Mexican President's Attitude Toward United States Is Gradually Changing.

NOW SEEKS TO PLEASE

Difficulties May Be Settled by Intervention of Business Interests.

That the administration intends to go slowly in attempting to solve the Mexican problem now clearly is indicated. Yesterday passed without the slightest change in the situation, and no move was made upon the part of the President or Secretary Bryan toward altering in any way the present state of affairs.

It became known more positively, however, that the idea uppermost in the President's mind with reference to Mexico is mediation of some sort. The idea hardly has advanced beyond a tentative state, but it is the present intention to try to shape it into a definite plan. The President is not inclined to rush headlong into even a proposal of mediation.

Time Will Be Taken.

It is the expectation that it will be many days before the administration makes any decisive move with respect to the Mexican situation. Meantime, the impression is growing that out of the wholly extra-official efforts to work out a program of conciliation and compromise in Mexico there may result something which will render unnecessary any drastic action by the government of the United States. While this movement toward a compromise, the chief feature of which is, of course, the elimination of President Huerta, is wholly outside the administration, it is understood that President Wilson is inclined to delay a final decision, pending the efforts of those behind the new program in Mexico.

This movement seems to center chiefly about Oscar Branniff, a wealthy Mexican, most highly esteemed in both sides of the United States. Mr. Branniff, who leaves today for Mexico City, Mr. Branniff, it is known, is working in the direction of averting, if possible, the necessity for interference, even in the form of mediation, by the United States. Mr. Branniff represents in New York certain large manufacturing interests having a big business with Mexico, and is understood to enjoy the confidence of other Mexicans and many Americans with important financial and commercial interests in Mexico. His plans and hopes with regard to the situation in Mexico are known to the President. Mr. Branniff has been in Washington for several days, conferring with Secretary of State Bryan and State Department officials. He has been seen in the White House, however. While his plans are fully known and understood by the State Department, they are not receiving the same attention as they are.

CONTINUED ON PAGE THREE

JEWELS VALUED AT $76,200 ARE STOLEN

Thieves Make Away with Valuables of Mrs. C. C. Rumsey, Daughter of Late E. H. Harriman.

New York, July 29.—Jewels valued at $76,200 were stolen from the sleeping apartment of Mrs. Charles C. Rumsey, daughter of the late E. H. Harriman, in Gunning Rock cottage, Narragansett Pier, R. I., some time between 8 o'clock Saturday night and the same hour on Sunday evening. Included in the missing valuables is a rope of pearls, valued at $10,000, which was Mrs. Harriman's wedding gift to her daughter. A statement of the theft was made today by C. C. Tetgethoff, who is in charge of the Harriman estate. Detectives have been unable to obtain any clue.

Mr. Tetgethoff gave out this list of the stolen property:

Pearl necklace of two strings of sixty-five stones each, value, $6,000; ruby and pearl pendant, value, $2,000; large diamond stone ring in a bar, value, $8,000; diamond plaque brooch, containing a large solitaire diamond, value, $2,000; gold mesh set with diamonds and sapphires, value, $1,000.

In addition to this list given to Mr. Tetgethoff over the telephone by Mrs. Rumsey, it was said other articles of no great value were taken by the thieves. Mr. Tetgethoff said he was not kept locked, but only members of the household had access to the room.

SHOT TO DEATH NEAR "LITTLE WHITE HOUSE"

Body of Man Found Close to Home of Election.

Seagirt, N. J., July 29.—Within a few hundred yards of the "Little White House," where President Wilson received notification of his nomination and election, the body of George R. Harris, a stenographer, of Danbury, Conn., was discovered by two residents of Seagirt today. There were bullet holes in the head and left hand and in the knee. A .22-caliber revolver, partly loaded, had been placed loosely in the right hand.

A short distance from the body an empty pocketbook was found. Coroner Bennett, of Belmar, said that in his opinion it was not a case of suicide. He believes that Harris was shot and robbed, and that his assailant then placed the revolver in his hand.

Harris had been spending his vacation in the boarding house of Mrs. David W. Robinson at Spring Lake. It was said at the boarding house that he had told other boarders that he was a widower with no living relatives.

The place where the body was discovered was on the edge of the State encampment ground, Harvey Blakey and George Roberts came upon it in a ramble.

The "Little White House" is now occupied by Gov. Fielder of New Jersey.

Steamer Cut in Two.

Montreal, July 29.—Word was received here today that the steamer Lady of Gaspe was cut in two by the steamer Queen of Cordova near Cape de la Madeleine. The steamer Queen, commanded by wireless, rescued all the passengers.

ANXIOUS TO PLEASE UNITED STATES.

Report to Senate Made, Following Inspection by Messrs. French and Olmsted.

NO ORNAMENT IS FOUND NEW INQUIRY PLANNED

Recommendation Made for a Permanent Monument at Point of Deep-cut Cut at Culebra.

That the Panama Canal construction work is not an architectural beauty is the admission of the Commission of Fine Arts. In a report made to the President on the work as a whole, which was transmitted to the Senate yesterday from the White House.

The report was laid before the Senate at 7 o'clock in the evening, just as that body was going into executive session, and then was hurried away to the Government Printing Office, so that little was learned of the details contained in it. Much of the report is descriptive of the general plan of the work. Daniel C. French, a sculptor, and Frederick Law Olmsted, landscape architect, sailed from New York February 4, 1913, and made a personal inspection of the construction, conferred with Col. Goethals, and returned on February 25.

The entire absence of ornament and no evidence of the aesthetic sense of the descriptive phrases employed by the commission to describe the work on the canal. This, the commission admits, was to be expected of a work that was to be "strictly for utility."

"Like the pyramids, it is impressive because of its scale and simplicity," observes the Fine Arts Commission. "Anything done merely to beautify would have been an imperfection in a work of that character," in the view of the commission.

For Lasting Memorial.

One of the most important recommendations made by the Fine Arts Commission is for a permanent memorial or monument at the point of the deepest cut at Culebra, where the canal passes out of the continental divide. This cut is 62 feet deep, and the commission recommends that a monument be placed on the side of the canal, at least 100 feet high and of greater width, suitable for some impressive inscription in Roman lettering, that may be read from the other side of the canal. The commission also recommends that this be placed on the east wall of the cut. It also recommends a monument on Gold Hill.

The commission also recommends a suitable structure in the form of an arch or other markings to denote the Panama Canal.

Pay and where the canal actually

CONTINUED ON PAGE NINE

CANDIDATES NEED HAVE NO FEARS

"Horse Play" Not Allowed at Initiations by the Local Moose.

Views of Mr. Dentinger

Says Dictator of Birmingham (Ala.) Lodge Is to Blame for Two Deaths that Occurred.

There is no danger of prospective members of the Local Order of Moose in Washington being killed at initiations, as happened in Birmingham, Ala., last week. Mr. E. Dentinger, dictator of Columbia Lodge, No. 125 of this city, last night issued a statement declaring that no "horseplay" is permitted at the local initiation. He said he was fearful that the report of the two deaths in Alabama might tend to prevent persons here from joining the lodge.

Donald A. Kenny and Christopher Gustin were the Birmingham men who died as a result of the initiation to which they were subjected. When the time for the "branding process" arrived a metal emblem of the order was made red hot while the prospective members looked on. Their chests were bared and both candidates were blindfolded. A magnet was attached to one leg of each candidate and chilled rubber emblems were pressed against their chests, while electric wires connected with the magnets were applied to their shoulders to complete the circuits. Both men fainted immediately and died without recovering consciousness. There was some doubt as to whether the men were electrocuted or killed by fright.

"As dictator of Columbia Lodge," said Mr. Dentinger last night, "I want to say, in justice to the order at large, that this 'horseplay' is absolutely prohibited by the constitution of the organization. It was purely the fault of the dictator of the Alabama Lodge who has permitted any ceremony involving mechanical illustrations or anything other than what the sacred ritual requires."

STEAL CLOTHES WHILE SOCIETY FOLK SWIM

Thieves Take Apparel and Jewels from Bathing House of Newport Villa.

Newport, R. I., July 29.—Thieves concealed in the bushes about the beach on Gould Island, the country place of Mr. and Mrs. Percy D. Haughton, near off at Newport, stole from the bathing house of the villa, where Mr. and Mrs. Haughton and their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Lohrman Ames of Boston, started on their daily swim around the island, and when the competitors had left sight of their private bathhouse the robbers broke down the doors and made off with the clothing, money, and jewels of the two couples.

Deprived of their street apparel, Mr. and Mrs. Haughton and Mr. and Mrs. Ames ran about in the vicinity of the bathhouse thinking perhaps the thieves had dropped the clothing in the woods after extracting the money and other valuables, but no trace of the clothing was found.

After half an hour of futile search the two couples set off for the Haughton country house and started the gardener and others employed about the place by emerging from the woods in still wet bathing costumes.

WILL MEET MOTHER AT SEA.

Vincent Astor Afterward Will Join Fleet at Target Practice.

New York, July 29.—Vincent Astor will sail on the Nomad from the foot of West Seventy-ninth Street at daybreak tomorrow morning to meet the Olympic aboard which is his mother, Mrs. John Astor. He will probably pick up the Olympic about 10 miles out, and will send a wireless greeting which Mrs. Astor will receive on arrival.

The Nomad will accompany the Olympic back to port. Mrs. Astor will be taken off at Quarters and will go direct to Newport. From Newport Mr. Astor will leave with the Atlantic fleet for a day target practice trip. He will be the guest of Rear Admiral Badger on board the flagship Wyoming.

PANAMA CANAL CRITICISED FROM ART VIEWPOINT

Report to Senate Made, Following Inspection by Messrs. French and Olmsted.

NO ORNAMENT IS FOUND NEW INQUIRY PLANNED

Recommendation Made for a Permanent Monument at Point of Deep-cut Cut at Culebra.

That the Panama Canal construction work is not an architectural beauty is the admission of the Commission of Fine Arts. In a report made to the President on the work as a whole, which was transmitted to the Senate yesterday from the White House.

The report was laid before the Senate at 7 o'clock in the evening, just as that body was going into executive session, and then was hurried away to the Government Printing Office, so that little was learned of the details contained in it. Much of the report is descriptive of the general plan of the work. Daniel C. French, a sculptor, and Frederick Law Olmsted, landscape architect, sailed from New York February 4, 1913, and made a personal inspection of the construction, conferred with Col. Goethals, and returned on February 25.

The entire absence of ornament and no evidence of the aesthetic sense of the descriptive phrases employed by the commission to describe the work on the canal. This, the commission admits, was to be expected of a work that was to be "strictly for utility."

"Like the pyramids, it is impressive because of its scale and simplicity," observes the Fine Arts Commission. "Anything done merely to beautify would have been an imperfection in a work of that character," in the view of the commission.

For Lasting Memorial.

One of the most important recommendations made by the Fine Arts Commission is for a permanent memorial or monument at the point of the deepest cut at Culebra, where the canal passes out of the continental divide. This cut is 62 feet deep, and the commission recommends that a monument be placed on the side of the canal, at least 100 feet high and of greater width, suitable for some impressive inscription in Roman lettering, that may be read from the other side of the canal. The commission also recommends that this be placed on the east wall of the cut. It also recommends a monument on Gold Hill.

The commission also recommends a suitable structure in the form of an arch or other markings to denote the Panama Canal.

Pay and where the canal actually

CONTINUED ON PAGE NINE

KING OF LOAN SHARKS MAKES PLEA OF GUILTY

D. H. Tolman, Well Known in Washington, Admits Guilt in New Jersey Court.

Trenton, N. J., July 29.—D. H. Tolman, said to be the biggest loan shark in the United States, who has a chain of offices in all the principal cities from the Atlantic to the Pacific, pleaded guilty in court here today to the charge of keeping a disorderly house.

The Tolman was charged with his loan office in Trenton in 1911 and did a thriving business. He loaned his money at a rate of about 150 per cent a year.

The laws of New Jersey allow him to charge no more than 6 per cent.

New Jersey classed all places where the law is habitually violated as "disorderly houses." Hence, the arrest of Tolman on that charge.

The Tolman was made May 27 on Tolman's Trenton office by the chief of police on orders from the prosecuting attorney of the county, who had received many complaints of the manner in which Tolman was conducting his business. Tolman was employed in his office were held as witnesses against their employer.

D. H. Tolman is well known in Washington, being the silent backer of several loan companies which were hard hit by the new loan-shark law.

CONTINUANCE TAKEN IN CAMINETTI CASE

When Called in Court It Is Put Over Until This Morning—Impanel Jury Tuesday.

San Francisco, July 29.—When the cases against Maury Diggs and Drew Caminetti, under the indictments charging violations of the Mann White Slave act were called in the United States District Court today to be set for trial, a continuance was taken until tomorrow morning. Diggs filed a supplementary list of ten names of witnesses to be subpoenaed for the defense. The men to be called are habitues of beach resorts. Other intimations have been given that Diggs intends to attack the character of Marshal Warrington. He has had subpoenas issued for thirty witnesses so far.

Drew Caminetti, accused of tricking and frightening Lela Norris to Reno for immoral purposes, has not subpoenaed a single witness to his defense.

The impaneling of a jury to try Diggs and Caminetti on charges of conspiracy to violate the Mann act will begin next Tuesday. This is a separate indictment.

CHINESE REVOLT SPREADING.

Another Province Declares Itself Out and Many Desert Army.

Peking, July 29.—The revolt of the Southern provinces is spreading, according to reports received here today. The Hu Nan province has joined the secessionists. Rebel troops have been sent from Amoy and Fo-Kien province to strengthen the forces at Nankin and W. Sung. Desertions have taken place in the ranks of Gen. Li Huen, Vice President of the republic, who is conducting operations in Central China.

At Shanghai many of the rebel shells are falling in the foreign quarter. It is believed that the rebels have deliberately trained their guns on this section of the city. The Chinese in the city are panicky and are fleeing to the foreign quarters.

HOUSE RADICALS JUBILANT OVER M'ADOO'S VIEW

"Money Trust" Investigators Find Indorsement in Secretary's Statements.

NO ORNAMENT IS FOUND NEW INQUIRY PLANNED

Recommendation Made for a Permanent Monument at Point of Deep-cut Cut at Culebra.

That the Panama Canal construction work is not an architectural beauty is the admission of the Commission of Fine Arts. In a report made to the President on the work as a whole, which was transmitted to the Senate yesterday from the White House.

The report was laid before the Senate at 7 o'clock in the evening, just as that body was going into executive session, and then was hurried away to the Government Printing Office, so that little was learned of the details contained in it. Much of the report is descriptive of the general plan of the work. Daniel C. French, a sculptor, and Frederick Law Olmsted, landscape architect, sailed from New York February 4, 1913, and made a personal inspection of the construction, conferred with Col. Goethals, and returned on February 25.

The entire absence of ornament and no evidence of the aesthetic sense of the descriptive phrases employed by the commission to describe the work on the canal. This, the commission admits, was to be expected of a work that was to be "strictly for utility."

"Like the pyramids, it is impressive because of its scale and simplicity," observes the Fine Arts Commission. "Anything done merely to beautify would have been an imperfection in a work of that character," in the view of the commission.

For Lasting Memorial.

One of the most important recommendations made by the Fine Arts Commission is for a permanent memorial or monument at the point of the deepest cut at Culebra, where the canal passes out of the continental divide. This cut is 62 feet deep, and the commission recommends that a monument be placed on the side of the canal, at least 100 feet high and of greater width, suitable for some impressive inscription in Roman lettering, that may be read from the other side of the canal. The commission also recommends that this be placed on the east wall of the cut. It also recommends a monument on Gold Hill.

The commission also recommends a suitable structure in the form of an arch or other markings to denote the Panama Canal.

Pay and where the canal actually

CONTINUED ON PAGE NINE

HOUSE RADICALS JUBILANT OVER M'ADOO'S VIEW

"Money Trust" Investigators Find Indorsement in Secretary's Statements.

NO ORNAMENT IS FOUND NEW INQUIRY PLANNED

Recommendation Made for a Permanent Monument at Point of Deep-cut Cut at Culebra.

That the Panama Canal construction work is not an architectural beauty is the admission of the Commission of Fine Arts. In a report made to the President on the work as a whole, which was transmitted to the Senate yesterday from the White House.

The report was laid before the Senate at 7 o'clock in the evening, just as that body was going into executive session, and then was hurried away to the Government Printing Office, so that little was learned of the details contained in it. Much of the report is descriptive of the general plan of the work. Daniel C. French, a sculptor, and Frederick Law Olmsted, landscape architect, sailed from New York February 4, 1913, and made a personal inspection of the construction, conferred with Col. Goethals, and returned on February 25.

The entire absence of ornament and no evidence of the aesthetic sense of the descriptive phrases employed by the commission to describe the work on the canal. This, the commission admits, was to be expected of a work that was to be "strictly for utility."

"Like the pyramids, it is impressive because of its scale and simplicity," observes the Fine Arts Commission. "Anything done merely to beautify would have been an imperfection in a work of that character," in the view of the commission.

For Lasting Memorial.

One of the most important recommendations made by the Fine Arts Commission is for a permanent memorial or monument at the point of the deepest cut at Culebra, where the canal passes out of the continental divide. This cut is 62 feet deep, and the commission recommends that a monument be placed on the side of the canal, at least 100 feet high and of greater width, suitable for some impressive inscription in Roman lettering, that may be read from the other side of the canal. The commission also recommends that this be placed on the east wall of the cut. It also recommends a monument on Gold Hill.

The commission also recommends a suitable structure in the form of an arch or other markings to denote the Panama Canal.

Pay and where the canal actually

CONTINUED ON PAGE NINE

HOUSE RADICALS JUBILANT OVER M'ADOO'S VIEW

"Money Trust" Investigators Find Indorsement in Secretary's Statements.

NO ORNAMENT IS FOUND NEW INQUIRY PLANNED

Recommendation Made for a Permanent Monument at Point of Deep-cut Cut at Culebra.

That the Panama Canal construction work is not an architectural beauty is the admission of the Commission of Fine Arts. In a report made to the President on the work as a whole, which was transmitted to the Senate yesterday from the White House.

The report was laid before the Senate at 7 o'clock in the evening, just as that body was going into executive session, and then was hurried away to the Government Printing Office, so that little was learned of the details contained in it. Much of the report is descriptive of the general plan of the work. Daniel C. French, a sculptor, and Frederick Law Olmsted, landscape architect, sailed from New York February 4, 1913, and made a personal inspection of the construction, conferred with Col. Goethals, and returned on February 25.

The entire absence of ornament and no evidence of the aesthetic sense of the descriptive phrases employed by the commission to describe the work on the canal. This, the commission admits, was to be expected of a work that was to be "strictly for utility."

"Like the pyramids, it is impressive because of its scale and simplicity," observes the Fine Arts Commission. "Anything done merely to beautify would have been an imperfection in a work of that character," in the view of the commission.

For Lasting Memorial.

One of the most important recommendations made by the Fine Arts Commission is for a permanent memorial or monument at the point of the deepest cut at Culebra, where the canal passes out of the continental divide. This cut is 62 feet deep, and the commission recommends that a monument be placed on the side of the canal, at least 100 feet high and of greater width, suitable for some impressive inscription in Roman lettering, that may be read from the other side of the canal. The commission also recommends that this be placed on the east wall of the cut. It also recommends a monument on Gold Hill.

The commission also recommends a suitable structure in the form of an arch or other markings to denote the Panama Canal.

Pay and where the canal actually

CONTINUED ON PAGE NINE

HOUSE RADICALS JUBILANT OVER M'ADOO'S VIEW

"Money Trust" Investigators Find Indorsement in Secretary's Statements.

NO ORNAMENT IS FOUND NEW INQUIRY PLANNED

Recommendation Made for a Permanent Monument at Point of Deep-cut Cut at Culebra.

That the Panama Canal construction work is not an architectural beauty is the admission of the Commission of Fine Arts. In a report made to the President on the work as a whole, which was transmitted to the Senate yesterday from the White House.

The report was laid before the Senate at 7 o'clock in the evening, just as that body was going into executive session, and then was hurried away to the Government Printing Office, so that little was learned of the details contained in it. Much of the report is descriptive of the general plan of the work. Daniel C. French, a sculptor, and Frederick Law Olmsted, landscape architect, sailed from New York February 4, 1913, and made a personal inspection of the construction, conferred with Col. Goethals, and returned on February 25.

The entire absence of ornament and no evidence of the aesthetic sense of the descriptive phrases employed by the commission to describe the work on the canal. This, the commission admits, was to be expected of a work that was to be "strictly for utility."

"Like the pyramids, it is impressive because of its scale and simplicity," observes the Fine Arts Commission. "Anything done merely to beautify would have been an imperfection in a work of that character," in the view of the commission.

For Lasting Memorial.

One of the most important recommendations made by the Fine Arts Commission is for a permanent memorial or monument at the point of the deepest cut at Culebra, where the canal passes out of the continental divide. This cut is 62 feet deep, and the commission recommends that a monument be placed on the side of the canal, at least 100 feet high and of greater width, suitable for some impressive inscription in Roman lettering, that may be read from the other side of the canal. The commission also recommends that this be placed on the east wall of the cut. It also recommends a monument on Gold Hill.

The commission also recommends a suitable structure in the form of an arch or other markings to denote the Panama Canal.

Pay and where the canal actually

CONTINUED ON PAGE NINE

HOUSE RADICALS JUBILANT OVER M'ADOO'S VIEW

"Money Trust" Investigators Find Indorsement in Secretary's Statements.

NO ORNAMENT IS FOUND NEW INQUIRY PLANNED

Recommendation Made for a Permanent Monument at Point of Deep-cut Cut at Culebra.

That the Panama Canal construction work is not an architectural beauty is the admission of the Commission of Fine Arts. In a report made to the President on the work as a whole, which was transmitted to the Senate yesterday from the White House.

The report was laid before the Senate at 7 o'clock in the evening, just as that body was going into executive session, and then was hurried away to the Government Printing Office, so that little was learned of the details contained in it. Much of the report is descriptive of the general plan of the work. Daniel C. French, a sculptor, and Frederick Law Olmsted, landscape architect, sailed from New York February 4, 1913, and made a personal inspection of the construction, conferred with Col. Goethals, and returned on February 25.

The entire absence of ornament and no evidence of the aesthetic sense of the descriptive phrases employed by the commission to describe the work on the canal. This, the commission admits, was to be expected of a work that was to be "strictly for utility."

"Like the pyramids, it is impressive because of its scale and simplicity," observes the Fine Arts Commission. "Anything done merely to beautify would have been an imperfection in a work of that character," in the view of the commission.

For Lasting Memorial.

One of the most important recommendations made by the Fine Arts Commission is for a permanent memorial or monument at the point of the deepest cut at Culebra, where the canal passes out of the continental divide. This cut is 62 feet deep, and the commission recommends that a monument be placed on the side of the canal, at least 100 feet high and of greater width, suitable for some impressive inscription in Roman lettering, that may be read from the other side of the canal. The commission also recommends that this be placed on the east wall of the cut. It also recommends a monument on Gold Hill.

The commission also recommends a suitable structure in the form of an arch or other markings to denote the Panama Canal.

Pay and where the canal actually

CONTINUED ON PAGE NINE

HOUSE RADICALS JUBILANT OVER M'ADOO'S VIEW

"Money Trust" Investigators Find Indorsement in Secretary's Statements.

NO ORNAMENT IS FOUND NEW INQUIRY PLANNED

Recommendation Made for a Permanent Monument at Point of Deep-cut Cut at Culebra.

That the Panama Canal construction work is not an architectural beauty is the admission of the Commission of Fine Arts. In a report made to the President on the work as a whole, which was transmitted to the Senate yesterday from the White House.

The report was laid before the Senate at 7 o'clock in the evening, just as that body was going into executive session, and then was hurried away to the Government Printing Office, so that little was learned of the details contained in it. Much of the report is descriptive of the general plan of the work. Daniel C. French, a sculptor, and Frederick Law Olmsted, landscape architect, sailed from New York February 4, 1913, and made a personal inspection of the construction, conferred with Col. Goethals, and returned on February 25.

The entire absence of ornament and no evidence of the aesthetic sense of the descriptive phrases employed by the commission to describe the work on the canal. This, the commission admits, was to be expected of a work that was to be "strictly for utility."

"Like the pyramids, it is impressive because of its scale and simplicity," observes the Fine Arts Commission. "Anything done merely to beautify would have been an imperfection in a work of that character," in the view of the commission.

For Lasting Memorial.

One of the most important recommendations made by the Fine Arts Commission is for a permanent memorial or monument at the point of the deepest cut at Culebra, where the canal passes out of the continental divide. This cut is 62 feet deep, and the commission recommends that a monument be placed on the side of the canal, at least 100 feet high and of greater width, suitable for some impressive inscription in Roman lettering, that may be read from the other side of the canal. The commission also recommends that this be placed on the east wall of the cut. It also recommends a monument on Gold Hill.

The commission also recommends a suitable structure in the form of an arch or other markings to denote the Panama Canal.

Pay and where the canal actually

CONTINUED ON PAGE NINE

HOUSE RADICALS JUBILANT OVER M'ADOO'S VIEW

"Money Trust" Investigators Find Indorsement in Secretary's Statements.

NO ORNAMENT IS FOUND NEW INQUIRY PLANNED

Recommendation Made for a Permanent Monument at Point of Deep-cut Cut at Culebra.

That the Panama Canal construction work is not an architectural beauty is the admission of the Commission of Fine Arts. In a report made to the President on the work as a whole, which was transmitted to the Senate yesterday from the White House.

The report was laid before the Senate at 7 o'clock in the evening, just as that body was going into executive session, and then was hurried away to the Government Printing Office, so that little was learned of the details contained in it. Much of the report is descriptive of the general plan of the work. Daniel C. French, a sculptor, and Frederick Law Olmsted, landscape architect, sailed from New York February 4, 1913, and made a personal inspection of the construction, conferred with Col. Goethals, and returned on February 25.